Bank Customer Churn Analysis

Independent Data Analysis Project | In progress

- Inspected customer and account datasets and addressed duplicate records, inconsistent data types and data-quality issues.
- Used Python and Pandas to clean and prepare structured data for further analysis.
- Working on combining customer and account information to investigate customer characteristics and churn-related patterns.

FUD Study Hub

Founder, Project Manager & System Architect | Federal University Dutse

- Identified students' difficulty accessing lecture notes, past examination questions and other academic resources; gathered user input to understand the problem.
- Designed and developed a centralized academic-resource platform using Python, Django, HTML, CSS and JavaScript.
- Used SQLite during development and PostgreSQL in production; implemented user access and material upload/download workflows.
- Deployed the application on Render.
